About this book

This is a compilation of the cemetery records for Fairview Cemetery during the years 1945 thru 1949. This included abstracting the burials from the burial register, locating the burials in the plat book to complete information omitted from the burial register, and locating and transcribing obituaries whenever available.

Not every entry will have an obituary, but every effort was made to locate one or to locate the death record for these persons. These obituaries were transcribed as they appeared in the newspapers, which means that sometimes the spellings of the name in the register and plot may appear differently than the spelling in the newspaper.

Dieckmann & Son; ; ; ; 397; NAT Monday, 11 Apr 1949 p1 c2 & p2 c3 & 4; 'UNCLE BOB' MORRIS, 3-TERM MAYOR OF NEW ALBANY, DIES; [photo] Death came quietly Monday morning to Robert W. (Uncle Bob) Morris, 411 East Fourth, who had spent almost half of his 90 years in service of his city, county, state and nation. Although he retired from public life in 1935, Morris, a former mayor and postmaster of New Albany, was seen almost daily taking walks along the streets of New Albany, which he knew so well. This habit, which kept him abreast of the news in the city, continued until his last illness which set up about two weeks ago and ended in his death at 3 a.m. He was known as dean of New Albany's former mayors, serving in that post from 1914 to 1926—the longest period any person has filled that office. Morris' career as a public officer began in 1883 when, at the age of 23, he was elected city clerk. After two terms in that post he was elected Floyd County auditor in 1886 and served for eight years. Although he was an ardent Republican, Morris' election to county office was credited to the "Bob Morris Democrats" who supported him. In 1896 he was chosen to represent Floyd County in the state general assembly. Ardent Convention Fan: Morris, whose political interests carried him to every Republican national convention from 1882 when James G. Blaine was nominated through 1924, when the convention named, Calvin Coolidge, was appointed postmaster of New Albany in 1899 by President McKinley and he held that post for 12 years. With the founding of the New Albany Chamber of Commerce, Morris became its first secretary until he was elected to his first term as mayor in 1913, being reelected in 1917 and 1921. It was his defeat as candidate for a fourth term in 1925 which caused Morris to comment wryly, "One thing is certain, if you run for office long enough the people will retire you." But defeat as the city's chief executive did not end Morris' career of public service. He later was named U. S. commissioner and deputy U. S. clerk but retired in 1935 after reaching his 77th year. He never lost his deep interest in all things pertaining to New Albany and its people. His almost daily walks brought him in contact with his friends and acquaintances with whom he enjoyed stopping and talking. Boasted Of Good Health: Upon his 90th birthday last November 10, Morris said he could not recall having a serious illness. He described his pastimes as listening to the radio, reading newspapers and eating hearty meals. Morris was a member of Centenary Methodist Church, The Jefferson Lodge of Masons, and a charter member of the New Albany Lodge of Elks. Since his wife died several years ago he continued to live at the Fourth Street residence, which was looked after by a housekeeper. Only living relatives are three nephews, Ralph, Frank D. and Paul N. Morris, all of New Albany; and four nieces, Mrs. A. D. Fleischman and Mrs. Stephen J. Cole, New Albany, and Miss Ethel Morris and Mrs. Edith Bybee, Los Angeles, Calif. The body is at the Dieckmann mortuary where funeral rites will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. Interment will be in Fairview Cemetery. Pall bearers will be chosen from members of the Jefferson Lodge of Masons.
